while those of the Vice Presidents relate to routine matters. As the Local Self Govt scheme is in its initial stages it seems necessary to enlist the cooperation of these non official gentlemen by investing them with greater independent powers. This step is also desirable to give training to these gentlemen who are in due course expected to fill the high offices of the Presidents of Local Boards.

(25) Subclause (c) deals with the powers of Presidents over the officers and servants of the Boards. Rules regarding the appt., punishment & grant of leave etc to the staff of the Board have to be framed. But according to the existing rules, the Presidents have to delegate their powers of control at the establishment. In Bombay and Madras, it is ruled that the Vice Presidents can perform such of the functions as are delegated to them in writing by the Presidents. The delegation of functions to the V. P. by the President seems to be an internal arrangement for the efficient administration of the Local Board affairs.

(6) Under the above circumstances it is for consideration whether Govt can force the Presidents to give more powers to the V. P. than they are actually willing to delegate. The President, my own District Board is not willing even to permit the Vice President to sign references to Govt. during his absence from Headquarters.

(7) It is therefore submitted for orders as to whether the proposals of the Presidents of the Dist Boards may not be sanctioned with the suggestion that Govt desire that the non-official gentlemen should be invested with larger powers so that the ultimate object with which the Local Self Govt scheme was started may be achieved in the near future.
